The image features two ancient clay vessels, possibly from the Indus Valley civilization, set against a black background. A diagonal black line splits the image. The vessel on the left is a larger, bulbous jar with a dark, stylized figure of a person in a dynamic pose. The vessel on the right is a smaller, squat jar with a short neck and a small opening at the top. Both vessels are covered in intricate, dark, stylized markings, including what appear to be human figures and animals. An orange rounded rectangle with the word 'REBELWAY' in white capital letters is positioned at the bottom center, overlapping both vessels.
